UC Libraries Shared Print

University of California Libraries
Shared Print Update
PAN Forum, June 2022

The University of California Shared Print program facilitates the effective development and management of physical collections among the libraries of the University of California. Through coordinated action, the UC Libraries optimize the management of information resources for students and faculty. With a longstanding tradition of collaboration among the libraries and with extramural partners, the UC shared print collections include monographs, journals, microforms and art slides that are jointly collected and collectively managed; most are held as shared collections in storage while others are held in place, in full-service campus libraries. Shared print collections, strategies and extramural partnership are developed and managed by Shared Print Strategy and Operation Teams. For more information, contact Alison Wohlers, UC Libraries Shared Print Manager: alison.wohlers@ucop.edu.

UC Annual Journal Archiving Campaign Service (JACS)

The UC journal archiving campaigns (JACS) provide a coordinated approach to selecting, depositing, consolidating, and preserving print journal backfiles at the UC Regional Library Facilities (RLFs). The service consists of annual, coordinated deposits of campus holdings for a defined list of journals. RLF staff consolidate a single copy of each title for long-term retention and access, validating retained holdings at the volume level and deaccessioning duplicates. The resulting shared print collection is disclosed annually in OCLC WorldCat and the Print Archive Preservation Registry (PAPR).

In March 2022, the titles lists for the next two years of archiving were finalized (JACS 7 & 8), totaling just under 650 journal families and anticipating the addition of approximately 40,000 volumes to the UCL Shared Print collection. The JACS Collections Working Group aimed to compile lists that offer significant and wide-spread opportunities for deduplication of campus collections with the goal of reclaiming space to be used for ongoing local collection development and other library and campus priorities. Additionally, UC Libraries' Common Knowledge Groups (CKG) were invited to nominate eligible titles in their domain areas.

UC Federal Documents Archive (FedDocArc)

Established in 2014, the UC Federal Documents Archive (FedDocArc) continues to progress in establishing a systemwide collection of federal documents, improving access through increased digitization, and supporting UC campuses in reclaiming shelf space from unnecessary duplication. UC FedDocArc is designed as a persistent archive that consists of one print and one digital copy of all US federal government documents owned by the UC Libraries. Print copies are shelved at a UC Regional Library Facility and are available to library patrons as "library use only." Digital copies are preserved in and accessible through the HathiTrust repository. Between 2015 and 2017 the project established the foundation of the archives based on monographic items shelved at the Regional Libraries Facilities (RLFs). Since then and through the present, campuses have started analyzing and contributing from their own collections to the FedDocArc housed in the RLFs. The work continues to be focused on monographs, but future phases are anticipated to include serials. For questions related to the UC FedDocArc please contact Project Lead, Jesse Silva: jsilva@library.berkeley.edu.
